

N8000

The new NetMax N8000 is the centerpiece of the IRIS-Net solution. It offers an extremely flexible hardware platform that allows for field-level customization of the unit to nearly any application. The N8000's ability to customize far surpasses the ability of other available platforms. Everything, from matrix size and configuration to processing power, can be determined in the field, making it easy to design the best solution value for the customer.
